I have an LG 42' TV and cannot figure out which system setting to use to program the TV channels.. This tutorial shows you the power within this amazing audio processor In the 22 years since it's inception (1997), Auto-Tune has been the industry standard for tuning vocals, and for good reason.. There are many people out there wanting to lay blame on the tools for their work sounding robotic, or unnatural.

There are many other tuning softwares available, but none have the proven to me better.. In the past 20 years, I've never had a single negative comment, or even anyone notice that I've used a tuning software, which is exactly as it should be.

I may take some heat for saying so, but this doesn't have to be the case if you learn how to use your tools properly; pay attention to what the settings do.. There's Auto Mode, also know as "lazy mode", and Graphical Mode, also known as "Auto-Tune".

I could probably write an entire book on tuning vocals, but the intent here is to give you an inside look at the most commonly used parameters and how to use Auto-Tune in a more effective way..... From my own personal experience, it's still my go-to tuning software, as it can keep up with my own workflow, and does exactly what I need it to do.. Graphic Mode is a bit more involved, but yields MUCH better results! Graphic Mode basically works like this: You capture (track pitch) the performance once into the plug-in, so it can be analyzed, displayed and edited.. The Correction Modes In Auto-TuneThere are two correction modes and ways to use Auto-Tune.. If something doesn't sound right, keep tweaking until it does It's as simple as that.. Auto tuning TV signals can store some wrong channels It is worth noting that when you install a TV aerial and point it in a direction, although you will focus the gain so that it maximises signal pick up in that direction, it will still pick up signals to the sides and even behind of the way the aerial is pointing.. Auto Mode basically runs in real-time, and analyzes the audio as it passes through.
